G. S. C. W. Annual Will Have Georgia Historical Background

In February, 1733, two hundred years ago, Oglethorpe with his company first set foot in Georgia. Our state is celebrating, in February, 1933, the founding of the state. G. S. C. W. is honoring the memorable event, not only through the pageant to be given by the students, but also in the presentation of its annual.

The bicentennial is to be the theme of the annual this year. The book has for a background the interesting panorama of Georgia's development from the time of the founding up to the present. The division pages depict epochs in Georgia history. The superlatives, which are to be chosen from the Senior class, will represent seven great women of Georgia.

The book covering, which is to be typical of old books with its panels and bound leather corners, further carries out the bicentennial idea.

The fact that the annual is to be built around a historical theme does not mean that the book will be entirely taken up with the deeds of our forefathers. There is to be a section of G. S. C. W. sweethearts, featuring the campus loves. There will also be a snapshot section, composed of pictures taken on the Annual Hike, picnics to Nesbitt Woods, and other such snapshots.

The Spectrum may be purchased either on the "installment" plan or by paying the full amount at one time.

"We hope to deliver the Spectrums around May the first," said Miss Marion Powers, editor of the annual. "Members of the staff will be around soon to give everyone a chance to subscribe. We are working hard to make the Spectrum this year the loveliest one ever edited."

Student Activities Council Organized

The second meeting of the Student Activities Council was held last Wednesday afternoon. At this meeting the report from the temporary steering committee was read and the plans made by this committee explained to the entire council.

The first meeting of the council was held under the supervision of Margaret K. Smith. The temporary steering committee was elected with Mary Helen Mitchell as chairman. Other members were: Winnie Champlin, Margaret Edwards, Sara Owens, Billie Jennings, McArva Allen, Dot Allen, Agnes Smith.

The steering committee met Sunday afternoon and formulated plans for the activities of the council for the coming year. The plans outlined include a recreational room for the students, with radio, ping-pong tables, books and other means of passing leisure time. Various clubs for students will be organized. They will include poetry, sketching and fine arts groups, and a short story reading club. Other clubs are being planned for the near future.

The purpose of the student activity council is to give an outlet or means of expression to those students who feel they would like to make some definite contribution towards making the life on the campus more ideal. There are no requirements for membership to the council except a hearty interest in G. S. C. W. and a desire to help remedy situations that might exist on the campus, and a willingness to execute the plans that are made.

Miss Polly Moss is the general supervisor of the council and Dr. G. Harris Webber is the faculty advisor.

Permanent officers when elected will include a steering committee of ten, a chairman, a secretary, and a treasurer.

Grounds of The New Library Landscaped

The grounds of the new library have been landscaped by an artist of the Eatonton nursery, with the assistance of Miss Nixon's landscape gardening class. Shrubs and evergreens have been planted in front and back of the building, and artistically placed on the terraces on either side. Wintergrass has been sown and already a healthy green shows a pleasing contrast of the grounds with the red brick of the building. Many shrubs grown in the college gardens were advantageously used in nooks and corners.

Gould Memorial Fund Given to G. S. C. W.

The Gould Memorial fund was given to the library of the Georgia State College for Women by the three daughters of Mrs. Alberta Telfair Gould, as a memorial to her.

Mrs. Gould was at one time a teacher of geography in the college. She was very much interested in geography and after her death her daughters left a fund with which to provide books of travel and geography for the library.

Books are not bought every year with this fund but the interest is allowed to accrue for a period of about four years. A number of books were bought this year and the following are a few of them: Willoughby, Spawn of the North; Siren, Walls and Gates of Peking; Aitchison, North America by Plane and Train; Jordan, North America; Saxon, Fabulous New Orleans; Anthony, Paddle wheels and pistols; and Thompson, Greater America.

The above mentioned books are to be found on the shelves of the browsing nook this week. There are a great many more of these books, a complete list of which you will find in the Library News. If you are interested in one of the books not on the shelves yet, the librarians will be glad to get it out of the stacks for you.

Optimism seems to be stronger among the relief forces than among those that need relief.

G. S. C. W. Participates In Psycho Examinations

In cooperation with the American Council of Education, the Georgia State College for Women together with one hundred and fifty of America's leading colleges gives psychological tests to some forty thousand freshmen.

The tests locally are administered under the direction of the department of education and psychology with Dr. George Harris Webber in charge, assisted by Dr. Thomas B. Meadows, Dr. Earl Bell Bolton, Professor Ruth Stone, and thirty student doctors.

Value of the Tests

The test forms give a basis by which the authorities may distinguish between a student's mental abilities and his high-school preparation and his industry. College administrators may be guided in their action on failures by the results of the tests. A fine outcome is the discovery of bright students.

While we should not make the mistake of thinking that the psychological test is an absolute measure of mentality, it does, however, discover more accurately the mental abilities of the student than a personal interview could. Another factor of extreme importance is that where students come from so many high schools with varying standards, the psychological test is a safer method for judging abilities of freshmen than high-school records.

The tests serve the college as a basis of comparison with other colleges. The institution may determine whether or not its students are as mature and as well trained as those entering other institutions. A scientific measuring rod is necessary for accurate estimating; opinion will not suffice.

Out of the data secured the department of education and psychology is projecting a number of investigations and studies that will redound to the good of the entire college. The Georgia State College for Women was recently commended for this program by members of the survey committee studying the institutions of higher learning in the state.

Education Week Will Be Observed Here

Education week, which is observed annually at G. S. C. W. will begin Tuesday, Nov. 8, and last throughout the week in cooperation with the schools of the entire country.

Dr. George Harris Webber, head of the department of education, will direct the programs which will be given each day at the chapel exercises relating to the different phases of education.

The program for the week is as follows:

- Nov. 8—The Schools of Pioneers
- Nov. 9—Two Centuries of Progress.
- Nov. 10—Equality of Opportunity.
- Nov. 11—American Ideals.
- Nov. 12—The Progressive Living.
- Nov. 13—Things of the Spirit.

Miss Hasslock Writes New History of Home Economics At G.S.C.W.

Many students have passed through G. S. C. W. without knowing the outstanding facts concerning the history of the college. In order that all may know the story of our Alma Mater's creation and growth, Miss Clara Hasslock, professor of Household Science and chairman of the school of Home Economics has written a short summary of G. S. C. W.'s past in the field of Home Economics.

The first bill to found a state-supported college for Georgia women was proposed by Judge Richard E. Russell in 1887. It was rejected. However, in 1888-1889 at the next legislature, a bill introduced by W. Y. Atkinson was passed which provided for the founding of the Georgia Normal and Industrial College.

In 1891, the college opened with an attendance of eighty-eight students from fifty-two different counties. Dr. Jos. H. Chappell was the president. The following year this number had more than doubled.

The domestic department had three features: a cooking school, the school of dress-making and the home department.

From the beginning, girls have been required to keep their rooms in order and to serve the table. "It is believed that this system of discipline and work will prove an admirable training for the girls and will go far toward fitting them for the responsible duties of house-wives and home-makers," appeared early in a catalog.

Not only that, but girls were required to make their own uniform dresses and urged to do sewing for others.

Dr. Marvin Parks became president of the college in 1904. So fervent was he in his acclamation of home economics that "he made this subject popular in the college, in the state, and in the whole southeast."

The first home management house was conducted on the top floor of Terrell Hall which was then Lamar Hall. That was in 1908-1909 and Miss Daisy Patton directed the experiments in light housekeeping.

President Parks expressed the aim of the Georgia Normal and

Wesleyan College Head Address G. S. C. W. Here

Dr. Dice R. Anderson, president of Wesleyan College at Macon, Georgia, spoke at the Milledgeville Methodist church Sunday morning, October 30. He was introduced by the pastor, Rev. Frank Quillen who also welcomed the Wesleyan students and alumni to the services.

Dr. Anderson's subject was "Education." He spoke directly to the college girls and boys in the audience. "The trouble with our educational system today," stated Dr. Anderson, "is that it is too uniform. Every person is born with a different personality and should be taught in different ways so that each personality may be developed."

Miss Harper, a member of the faculty at Wesleyan Conservatory rendered two vocal selections.

Sixth District G. E. A. Meet Here

MORE THAN 200 LEADING EDUCATORS ATTEND ANNUAL GATHERING.

A regional meeting of the Sixth district of the Georgia Education Association met here for an all day program Friday, November 4.

Superintendent C. B. Glenn, of the Birmingham, Alabama school system, was the principal speaker. Among the other speakers of the day were Dr. J. E. Mathis, president of the Georgia Education Association, who is superintendent of the schools in Americus, and is the second oldest educator in point of service in the state, exceeded only by Dr. Lawton B. Evans, head of the Richmond county school system; Colonel Hamilton McWhorter who will most likely head the Georgia state senate as its president; Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the Georgia State College of Agriculture; Dr. E. D. Pusey; Kyle T. Alfriend, secretary of the association, who used to be a member of the G. S. C. W. faculty; and Colonel George S. Roach, president of the Georgia Military College.

The program for the day was as follows:

- 10:00—Invocation by Rev. A. G. Harris.
- 10:05-15—Welcome Address by Dr. J. L. Beeson, president of the Georgia State College for Women.
- 10:15-30—Response by Dr. J. E. Mathis, president of the G. E. A.
- 10:30-50—The Qualities of a Good Teacher, Col. George S. Roach, president of G. M. C.
- 10:50-11:15—Our Educational Program, Supt. B. M. Grier.
- 11:15-40—Address, Representative Marion Allen, of Milledgeville.
- 11:40-12:10—The County Unit, Dr. E. D. Pusey.
- 12:10-50—Address, Supt. C. B. Glenn.

Noon—Guests of the College at Luncheon in the Atkinson Dining Room.

Dr. Amanda Johnson's Book In Wide Demand

Word has been received through Parker Publishing company that requests for copies of "Teaching of History in Grades and Junior High School" by Dr. Amanda Johnson has been made by Luther B. Bewley, director of education, Manila, Philippine Islands. The book ranks on the approved list of professional and library books issued by them.

Incidentally Mr. Brewley states in his letter that there are 4,342 school libraries in the Philippine schools, secondary and elementary, and several hundred school and divisional professional libraries.

Volley Ball Tournament

The first game of the volley ball tournament will be played between Terrell B and C and Mansion Tuesday afternoon at 5:30. The other games scheduled are Bell versus Bell Annex, Wednesday afternoon. Atkinson versus Terrell A Thursday afternoon.

Other games are to be scheduled later.

Sportsmanship

We can all smile and say what a fair game it was when we've won—but what if we've lost? To play the game we must be good losers as well as good winners.

Soon we are to start our volley ball tournament between dormitories. In the end there's going to be only one winner and six losers. What kind of losers are they going to be? A winner may be a bum sport too—winners that gloat over the victory, and winners that "rub it in," as we express it.

A good loser congratulates his opponents and smiles at defeat because he has not played the game for victory alone but also for the pleasure of the game.

Not only in our coming volley ball tournament but in all our games and activities on the campus we're going to be givers and takers, winners and losers. If we develop the quality of genuine sportsmanship at G. S. C. W. then it is ours to keep, even in later life.

G. S. C. W. Christmas Plans

With just seven more weeks until Christmas, old Santa Claus's mail box is going to begin a rushing business. We, for one, along with the usual request for a doll and some candy, are going to ask him to please send all the little G. S. C. W. girls a light to brighten the corners between Arts and the new library.

Whistling is fine for keeping up one's courage in the dark, but the only trouble is in getting up courage enough to whistle, especially in the presence of a few goblins, spooks, etc. that we believe were left over from Halloween. They must have liked our camps so much they took up their abode behind a certain tree halfway to the library via Arts. Not that we don't appreciate their liking us, but oh how we would love a light.

What Of The Future?

As Dr. Beeson pointed out in his talk to the upper classmen in chapel Thursday morning, the successful establishment of new structure of civilization depends, not on the generation now in charge, but on our generation. The job of restoring order from the present chaotic state of society will be ours, and we might as well prepare for it.

As college students, we are obligated to the future in two capacities—as voters and as teachers. As prospective voters, we must acquaint ourselves with the nature of the problems confronting us and add our efforts to those of the rest of humanity in the search for solutions. We must learn to select our leaders carefully and intelligently, for they will represent us in the struggle back to normalcy.

As teachers, we will have the opportunity to influence the opinions and attitudes of hundreds of future citizens. This is a grave responsibility, and one which requires intelligent preparation. We must also do our part to increase school attendance by making the public realize that an educated voting populace is the basis of efficient government.

The problems which we are facing are not hypothetical. They cannot be solved by theories. The failure of the modern social, political, and economic machine is a reality—a reality which we shall soon be called upon to face seriously and remedially. What are we going to do about it?

G. S. C. W. Campus Past and Future

"Magnificent new gymnasium and swimming pool replaces former jail house," will be for the future Miss G. S. C. W. to marvel upon. Progress has already made too great a stride to leave this undone.

Glancing back through the leaves of the History of Baldwin County by Mrs. Anna Green Cook, a student of today will be immensely interested to discover the progress already made on the twenty acre plot of land now used as the campus of G. S. C. W.

When Milledgeville was the capital of Georgia, one of the first buildings to be erected was the penitentiary, or the state prison. This "stupendous" building, which added greatly to the appearance of the town, was built on the present G. S. C. W. campus. The work shop and the cell rooms of the penitentiary were surrounded by a fifteen foot wall, upon which sentry boxes were constructed. Here the guards kept watch day and night. At night, the guard at the north east corner of the wall would call the hour, "Eight o'clock and all is well." The next guard would take up the cry as soon as the first one had finished. Thus it continued all the way around the wall, each guard shouting the cry. Years later the prison was removed to its present quarters which are two miles from Milledgeville, on the Macon highway.

After the prison was moved all the twenty acres were given to the Georgia Normal and Industrial College except a corner where the court house now stands and two other small plots of land where a boys' academy and a girls' school were built. These have been moved since that time.

Nesbit Woods, the college park, has not always been a retreat for college girls seeking recreation or for birds seeking a safe home. The square plot of land was once a tanyard. According to Mrs. Cook's history, "the odors of hide and tanbark were not the fragrance of roses, but there were then no near neighbors to suffer from it."

Are You Well Indexed?

Like the man who said he'd rather sit still and be thought a fool than to speak and remove all doubt, a lot of people should remain quiet to keep up "appearances."

Someone has said that speech is the index of the mind. By his speech, an individual may be catalogued in three ways. First, speech divulges the intellect—or lack of it. You have heard the story of the maiden, beautiful but dumb, who might have passed as "beautiful and mysterious" had she come minus her tongue. The second way in which speech betrays a person is in the betrayal of that person's training. Our age has been accused of the fact that manners are out of style. By our speech, though, we tell on ourselves as to whether they were ever in style with us. The atmosphere of one's home, the type of one's associates are all clear from person's speech. Most of all, character is portrayed by speech. Very few people who are kind speak in sharp tones; very few who are cheerful speak in grouchy voices.

A business man once said that he trusted or distrusted a man by his eyes and speech. Are you well indexed?

"Larry"

"That brilliant glowing splendor which was his Lives on in all our lives and memories."

—Mary Hawes.

"Larry, Thoughts of Youth" is one of the most impressive books that you can read. In it are placed without any changes or explanations the letters and diary of Larrimore Foster, a young man of today who expressed himself clearly and frankly to himself, his family and his friends. Larry writes to his family just as you write to yours, and tells all about what he is doing and all of those things that you write to keep them from missing you too much. There are happy things, sad things and thoughtful things, but you will like best the letters and poems headed simply "To Girl." Larry's death occurred in Arizona the summer after his Sophomore year at Lafayette College but he lives today and will live forever in the thoughts of youth.

THE HOUR'S GREAT NEED

The Rev. A. W. Bussey in his sermon at the First Baptist church Sunday evening struck the keynote when he said that the trouble with men today is that they don't understand each other; that they become alienated or grow indifferent to each other because of that lack of understanding. He based his remarks on the incident of Nehemiah sitting down with the people to get to understand them. He applied it to parent and child, husband and wife, and capital and labor. One individual or group becomes estranged from another when, if they understood the other they would sympathize and not antagonize.

The message was timely, for we approach winter when all of us will have many opportunities to learn the problems of others and therefore know how to sympathize and help. Those who see only their own comforts will need a vision of the sufferings of others that they may have part in feeding the hungry and clothing the naked.—Elberton Star.

Women cry less than formerly according to a psychologist. But just wait until prosperity returns.

Married women laugh oftener than single ones, observes a psychologist. Yes, but we fear a lot of the laughs are hysterical.

Cross Campus

By PHILLIP SPACE

I've always wanted to write a swan song, but so far all I've been able to get out is a duck's chuckle. I thought that this week would be my big chance and had a fond farewell address (probably due to my Washington nose,) when a kind or more truly unkind young lady offered to act as girl scout for me and bring in the news. It's a good idea to have some unknown college. I'm afraid that my identity isn't the secret it used to be and consequently I'm missing a lot of good points. So beware of the secret service man. Now where in the world is he? Here I am bragging about him and he hasn't turned in a single report. Oh well such is the life of a columnist.

Yes, I know I look all whipped down. But listen my children and you shall hear the cause of my grey hair. As I went up the steps the other morning, what should I come across but my dear little sister slipping a letter under Dr. White's door. Needless to say that my amazement reached the height of the Empire State building. But I learned that the letter was being delivered for a teacher.

I am informed that the Blue Stocking has threatened to throw out all staff members that do not put out laborious efforts for general progress of paper, etc. A hint to the wise is sufficient, and for information for some, as to who's on the staff, see corner of editorial page.

The campus was saturated with handsome and fair educators Friday, not that it isn't always such. But these were all strangers. Took me all day to find out what it was all about. In fact I wasn't sure I was in the right place, until I heard somebody's shoes squeak. I say the last with all respect.

I have been asked to announce a cure for snoring. M. P., my dear, the best cure I know is to stay awake. And while I'm prescribing, I should like to suggest to certain study hall keepers a dose of Dr. Dumbell's sense of humor. We can't understand why they, study hall keepers, can't see the point in the jokes that are so extremely funny to us during study hall.

Well, Boss, can't I go to my grandma's funeral?

Bi-Centennial Plans Steadily Progressing

Plans for the Georgia Bi-Centennial are still being made by Dr. Amanda Johnson. About one hundred and fifteen characters have been chosen to represent Georgia's resources, fifteen her wild life, and forty Indians. James Oglethorpe, Lady Oglethorpe, William Stephens, Tomo-chi-chi, the Indian princess, Colonel Mackay, Robert Tombs, and the "Liberty Boys" have been selected. Many more are to be chosen. The parts are being given out and rehearsals will begin next week.

G. S. C. W. FOR THE ALUMNAE

Through the Week With the

Those who heard Margaret K. speak at Vespers Thursday night will need no persuasion that Blue Ridge is the place to go this summer. The contacts, the atmosphere, the beauty of the country; each contribute to make the two weeks that the conference is in session at Blue Ridge an occasion to be looked forward to and one that should not be missed by those who find it possible to go.

Blue Ridge is not just a place where people go to talk about "Y's" and nothing else. It is a place where it is possible to gain a new attitude toward life and religion; a place where you exchange your ideas with someone else, and a place where interesting people gather for recreation and study of those things which interest them most.

The contact that one makes with famous people at Blue Ridge is in itself an inducement. Men and women who have traveled from one end of the globe to another, who have associated with the most interesting people in the world; and who have a definite message for you, are all gathered there in the informal atmosphere which pervades Blue Ridge for the purpose of giving you something you will enjoy. It is more than just that, too. It is fun.

The session lasts two weeks, beginning about the first of June. The cost is thirty-five dollars plus transportation costs. Even though it is a long way off, think and plan for a trip to Blue Ridge. G. S. C. W. is worthy of a large delegation. It isn't just for the "Y" girls, it is for any girl who feels she would enjoy going.

Say Freshmen! Haven't you anything to do on Monday afternoons? The hospitality committee is raring to take you on a hike on one of the Monday afternoons. Every thing that will be planned for you, and all that will be necessary for you to do is to give Sue Mansfield a dime, and your name and meet at the place she will tell you, and at the hour, and go out for a jolly good time.

Miss Mary Lee Anderson will speak at Vespers on Thursday night on the topic "Hinderances of World Peace."

Sunday, Nov. 13, begins the week of "World Prayer." This week of special study and prayer will be under the direction of the Christian World Education group. They will have charge of the program Sunday night and on Thursday night.

Topic for morning watch Thursday will be "How is the College Ideal Really Expressed?" Sunday morning the subject, "By Whom is the College Ideal Really Determined?" will be discussed.

CONFESSIONS

We always did admire Hani-let's ability as ghost-contacter of the before-our-time age and now we are forced to confess that he is positively cunning. But what has happened to the lovely lady who played Portia in "The Merchant of Venice?" Let's hope she didn't elope with the obsolete man of last week's mention.

WH Madam Quilt Ends please excuse us, who split mill on our hats for us not to weep over? And, also, who's brow is nobler and more in need of protection than our own? Weep, weep!—Just to prove that we are downcast and desolate over the departure of the lil' brown bonnet with the gregorian rosette on it.

Does any sweet damsel know how long the odor of banana oil monopolized the air in the biology laboratory Thursday? We haven't been able to decide whether a tropical atmosphere was desired or the mummy fruit odor was distributed, to make us real at home. At any rate, it sho' do be persistent. It's more worse than that cosmic, die-loving wasp that lodges in Arts.

We haven't heard about Earnest in years 'N' centuries. Who dug him up? However, we do remember having heard a rumor about Harry at that time. You remember our old pal and playmate who was named after his father's chest? Well, he now has a son named Steel. Harry lost a few ribs in the war and has had substitutes inserted.

What do you think of a suite-mate who can perch all evening amongst a be-on-on bed and not know of its contamination? We don't possess such, but we understand another inmate does.

L. C. Eubanks was quite upset in chapel November 3 over some mysterious occurrence. Such lack of control. Tsk, tsk. Calm yourself, L.; just think—November 8 will soon be here then we can play Tiddy Winks without paying a tax. Or do you crave ping pong?

We were positively elated over the Cupid training outfit on the campus last week; or was it Robin Hood? Marge E. would probably maintain as how 't was Peter Pan. Whistle for it as you desire, but we still think (since it's Leap Year) that Cupid is a better man than all of 'em. Ask the man who owns one. Or you might interview all three and draw your own conclusions.

And when you finish your artistic attempts, have a duel with the neighbors and see whose opinion is outstanding. Tsk, tsk. Such cruelty.

Somebody mingled us up on the sneeze nut business. We give up in dismay and decline to enter the occupation until further necessity confronts us.

Industrial College when he said, "It believes that the education of young women should be vitally concerned first about matters of health and character and personality. It believes that all the sciences and arts should be made to contribute to an improvement of the home, the school, the farm, the child, and of society in general."

The first summer school, a three weeks institute, was held in 1917 at which home economics was featured. In 1921 the college first granted degrees.

Students should be proud to say that G. S. C. W. has been a pioneer in many forms of education in the state. It was the first Normal School in Georgia; it was the first college to require agriculture and home economics as well as the first college in Georgia to teach home economics. In 1906 it led the South in placing home economics on a par with other departments. G. S. C. W. has been among the first colleges in the country to establish a department for the study of health.

As a result of the effectiveness of home economics work in this college, Senator Holte Smith as joint author with Senator Lever of South Carolina used his influence in Congress to pass a bill establishing the Federal extension work in agriculture and home economics in the United States. The law was passed in 1914.

The next step was an appropriation of $20,000 from the Georgia legislature and still later in 1917, Senator Smith and Representative Dudley Hughes introduced a bill which became a law providing "Federal Aid for Vocational Education in Agriculture, Home Economics Trades and Industries, and even classes throughout the United States."

1924 saw the organization of the Clara Whorley Hasslock Home Economics Club which functions today in aiding students of Home Economics financially and in contributing to the furnishings of the home management house.

In closing, Miss Hasslock expresses a hope that the school of home economics may continue to serve the college even more than it has in the past.

Already approximately 1,650 students have graduated in home economics; this year will see that number increased.

Faculty Alumnae Will Serve At the Tea Room

The alumnae on the campus are opening the tea room every Thursday afternoon and the profits will go toward the Alumnae scholarship fund.

The Mansion alumnae had a very successful day the past Thursday.

On next Thursday, the faculty alumnae are planning a Spanish day and many senoras senoritas, and (if you won't tell), many seniors will be there to greet you.

Would you like to participate in a good cabaret? Lots of fun and frolic? Then plan to be at the tea room Thursday, November 10.

At 8 o'clock, Supt. C. B. Glenn gave a final talk. He was introduced by Mr. Kyle T. Alfriend, who once taught at G. S. C. W.

Mr. Glenn gave a most interesting talk on the psychology of modern teaching. He told several very interesting anecdotes that illustrated his points.

He stated that "you can't make an impression without expression. If you try this it will be very dangerous."

Writers Group Enjoy Congenial Gathering

The Writers Group of the Literary Guild met with Miss Hallie Smith at her home in the Fowler apartments last Friday afternoon.

Different members presented original writings, which were criticized by the group. Selections from the new book of poetry by Daniel Whitehead Hickey were read and discussed.

Classical Guild Meets

The Classical Guild enjoyed a picnic out at the Cabin last Tuesday afternoon at 5:30.

At the business session it was decided that the club would have a page in the annual. The time of meeting was definitely settled. The Guild will meet every third Tuesday in each month, at 5:30.

Besides the regular members, Miss Jones, an honorary member, and Dr. and Mrs. Daniel, attended the picnic.

ACTIVITIES COUNCIL

The "Y" has provided a place for every student on the campus—hoggy groups for freshmen and committees for upper classmen—and now we are offered "Activities Council," which is to be comprised of all girls who feel that they have something to contribute to college life, or want to share in some specific way in things that are happening on the campus.

The Y. W. C. A. takes the attitude that every girl can express her personality in a way which will definitely add something to her own contentment and to the life of her fellow-students. The new organization is designed to provide for those girls who have not yet found an adequate avenue of expression, an opportunity to do the things they like to do.

It is hoped that the council will result in the development of leadership in its members and the expression of opportunity to do the things they like to do.

It is hoped that the council will result in the development of leadership in its members and the expression of original ideas and thoughts which might otherwise remain undiscovered.

Spanish Club Holds Meeting at G. S. C. W.

The Spanish Club held its first official meeting of the year in Ennis basement on Thursday afternoon, October 27. During the business session Margaret Wenzel was selected as chairman of the program committee.

After a Spanish song rendered by Miss Wenzel, Dr. Salle told, in the native tongue, of his visit to Spain last summer. Emily Renfro and Dot Smith then entertained with a Spanish dance in costume. Punch and crackers were served at the close of the program.

Biology Club Enjoys Fine Hallowe'en Party

Dr. Beatrice Nevins, head of the biology department, entertained the Biology Club with a Hallowe'en party, Saturday evening, October 29. The party was held in the cabin at Government Square Park from 7 to 9.

The guests were greeted at the door by ghosts who invited them into the cabin. Miss Irene Farren was in charge of the entertainment for the evening, and a typical Hallowe'en party ensued.

The guests enjoyed bobbing for apples, popping corn, pulling syrup candy, eating peanuts, drinking punch, and having their fortunes told by a Hallowe'en witch.

After refreshments the guests gathered around the open fire for ghost stories, which were told by different members of the group.

The cabin was attractively decorated with jack-o-lanterns, corn stalks, crepe paper, and autumn leaves.

Miss O'Kelley's Class Enjoys Fine Outing

Miss O'Kelley's History 21 class enjoyed a delightful outing at Nesbit Woods Saturday afternoon. Meeting under the lights, the girls hiked to the cabin and there prepared their own supper of delightful "pigs-in-the-blanket."

Later, while marshmallows were being toasted around the campfire, Miss O'Kelley told various interesting stories about her stay in England this past summer working for the state.

What'll We Wear?

What'll We Wear?

Coats should be full and fussy about a high waist line straight and simple below.

Sleeves have gone decidedly different. The leg-o-mutton influence is quite evident and three-quarter length is smartest.

Hats hug the head and are apt to flare upward from any angle, throwing the face into sharp relief and adding inches, just inches to your height.

A chic dress must—absolutely—have a high neck line. the higher the smarter.

Even scarfs now tie way up, right under your chin.

And, of course, no self-respecting foot will be seen out in bad weather without
